Who We Are

Rampage is a grassroots organisation focused on one simple, powerful thing: making everyday venues more accessible, one ramp at a time. Too often, a single step is the difference between inclusion and exclusion.

Rampage exists to remove that barrier - practically, visibly, and at pace.

Rampage was founded in 2026 by Natalie Bignell, a wheelchair user and accessibility advocate, whose lived experience sits at the heart of the campaign.

“ I founded Rampage to make accessibility the norm rather than the exception. After becoming paralysed and leaving hospital my biggest barrier to society was access. Limiting the places I could go. Navigating a lack of information. Phoning up and receiving misinformation. Arriving and being stuck due to the lack of access when just a simple ramp would solve that. I realised it wasn't my disability that's the problem, it's the environment - and I decided to change it. ”

What We Do

Rampage turns awareness into action through a practical, street-level approach:

- Identifying venues that are inaccessible due to steps
- Working with businesses to explore realistic ramp solutions
- Encouraging visibility - ramps should be seen, expected, and used
- Celebrating progress and sharing examples of what works

We focus on achievable changes that make an immediate difference.

The Policy

Rampage supports the effective implementation of the Equality Act 2010, which places a legal duty on service providers to make reasonable adjustments to remove barriers that place disabled people at a substantial disadvantage. This duty is anticipatory - meaning venues must consider accessibility in advance, not only when requested.

behind everything

Installing portable or permanent ramps is a practical, proportionate way for hospitality and cultural venues to meet their statutory obligations and ensure equal access to goods, services and public life.

Who We Work With

We work with:

- Disabled people who want equal access to public life
- Businesses and venues who want to be inclusive and future-ready.
- Local authorities, business owners, and partners who can unlock change
- Supporters and funders who want to back visible, practical impact

Meet the team

Saira
Campaign Director

I joined Rampage because the problem it tackles is both simple and unacceptable: too many venues still have steps at the door. By helping venues install practical access solutions, we're building a visible movement for fairness and inclusion.

Becki
Chair of Trustees

I'm involved with Rampage because I believe accessibility should be a basic expectation, not an afterthought, and I'm proud to support Natalie in creating real change.

Amy
Trustee

I'm proud to work with the Rampage team because of their passion for change, determination to be loud, take up space, and challenge people's perceptions of what disability looks like.

Caitlin
Trustee

I am passionate about making spaces accessible for everyone regardless of their income or influence, and am really excited to work with Rampage.
